

Amelia McCormick

Director of Program Development & Delivery

Experience

As the Director of Program Development and Delivery, Amelia oversees the Decker program experience – management of the core curriculum, new program development, client customization, our dynamic team of Program Leaders and scheduling. She is the resident expert for program customization, and she enjoys the challenges of tailoring programs to meet specific client needs, goals and timeframes. She also leads programs and workshops, as well as serves as an executive coach. In addition to her management role at Decker, Amelia loves the opportunity to have a direct impact on the communication skills of others.

Amelia's professional background is in advertising and strategic communications, working with a variety of regional and national clients on message development and communication strategy. Prior to Decker, she was director of marketing and fundraising for a county-wide nonprofit southern California.

In her spare time, Amelia volunteers for Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity's national organization. She and her husband, Kevin, live in Asheville, North Carolina with their twin children and two miniature schnauzers. In her spare time Amelia loves to cook, run and travel.

Education

Master of Science, Strategic Communication, University of Kansas

Bachelor of Science, Public Relations & Speech Communication, Kansas State University

About Decker Communications

Decker Communications consults and trains businesses in communications—both in what they say and how they say it. Decker programs are transformational, creating focus and confidence to help leaders close the deal, launch an initiative or motivate action. Since 1979, Decker has prepared individuals to create the most effective communications experience possible. For more information, visit: <http://decker.com>.
